FAQs on How to Complete Form C – Loss Carry-Back

Q1: The company has an assessable income of $80,000 in YA 2017. However, in YA 2018, the company has unutilised capital allowances and trade losses (i.e. loss items) of $120,000. Can the company carry-back the YA 2018 loss items to YA 2017 and if so, what is the amount it can carry-back?

A: Subject to the company meeting the business continuity test and shareholding test, the amount of loss items that can be carried back to YA 2017 is restricted to the lowest of:

- The actual amount of loss items in YA 2018 (i.e. $120,000);
- The assessable income for YA 2017 (i.e. $80,000); or
- $100,000 (maximum amount of loss items that can be carried back for any YA)

In this scenario, the amount of loss items that can be carried back to YA 2017 is $80,000. As such, the company is required to complete Box 5a with “$80,000”

FAQs on How to Complete Form C – Functional Currencies other than Singapore Dollars

Q2: If the tax computation and financial statements are maintained in a currency other than the Singapore dollars, how do I inform IRAS and how should I complete the Form C to show that the currency is not Singapore dollars?

A: You have to inform IRAS by logging in to mytax.iras.gov.sg and update it via the “Update Corporate Profile/ Contact Details” e-Service. Please refer to the website on Update of Functional Currency for the user guides.

Form C should be completed in Singapore dollars and not in the foreign currency. Please refer to the website on Filing of Income Tax Computations in Functional Currencies other than Singapore Dollars for the details.

FAQs on How to Complete Form C – Part XII

Q3: Where a Singapore company has branches overseas, should Part XII be completed on the basis of the company's Singapore operations only, or the consolidated results as reflected in the financial statements?

A: Balance sheet items are to be completed based on the consolidated results. Profit and loss items are to be completed based on the results of the Singapore operation.

Q4: How should I complete the "Purchases" in Box 33 if the company's financial statements does not have any figure for "purchases"?

A: If the figure for "purchases" is not available in the accounts, please fill in the figure for "cost of sales" instead, if this figure is available.

FAQs on How to Complete Form C – Part XII

Q5: How should I complete the “Sales, General and Administrative Expenses” in Box 36 if the company’s financial statements does not have this description?

A: Where there is no such description in the company’s financial statements, this Box can be completed based on the sum of all expenses after the gross profit line if the company is of the view that this figure is representative of sales, general and administrative expenses. Finance cost need not be included in Box 36 unless the company has included finance cost as part of sales, general and administrative expenses.

Please also exclude directors’ fees, directors’ remuneration and head office expenses as these items should be declared in Box 37 and/or Box 38 separately.

FAQs on How to Complete Form C – Part XII

Q6: Where the company's financial statements have an item called "Other receivables, deposits and prepayments", can a figure that represents the total of the three components be used to complete the "Other Receivables" in Box 39?

A: If there is a breakdown of "Other receivables, deposits and prepayments" in the Notes to the Accounts, please use the figure for the "Other receivables" to fill in Box 39. However, if there is no such breakdown, the figure for "Other receivables, deposits and prepayments" can be used.

Q7: Can the amount of trade receivables, net of provision be entered in Box 40 if the gross amount of trade receivables is not available anywhere in the financial statements?

A: Yes, the amount of trade receivables, net of provision amount can be used to fill in the "Trade Receivables" in Box 40 if the gross amount of trade receivables is not available anywhere in the financial statements. The figure should comprise of trade debts from all unrelated and related parties.

FAQs on How to Complete Form C – Part XII

Q8: Does “Trade Payables” in Box 41 include third party trade creditors, inter-company trade payables, accrued operating expenses and hire purchase creditors?

A: The amount of trade payables includes third party trade payables and inter-company trade payables, but excludes accrued operating expenses and hire purchase creditors.
