GST: Exchange Rates for GST Purpose

1 Aim

1.1 This e-Tax guide provides details on the approved exchange rates that GST registered businesses can use to convert foreign currency into Singapore currency for GST purposes.¹

2 At a glance

2.1 Where GST-registered businesses make supplies in foreign currencies, they are required to convert the foreign currency denominated supplies into Singapore currency based on conversion rates applicable at the time of supply.

2.2 This requirement is provided for under Paragraph 11 of the Third Schedule of the GST Act.

3 Acceptable Exchange Rates

3.1 Generally, for GST purposes, the adoption of exchange rate that meets all the following conditions is acceptable:

a) The exchange rate must be reflective of the Singapore money market at that point in time;

Administratively, exchange rates obtained from any of the sources listed in Appendix A would qualify.

b) The exchange rate must be the daily exchange rate corresponding to the time of supply. If not, it must be a good approximation of this rate;

Daily exchange rate refers to the prevailing buying rate, selling rate or average of the two. The use of the exchange rate on a particular day of the month (e.g. last working day of the previous month) or an average rate over a specific period (e.g. average of the daily rates for the previous month) to approximate the daily exchange rate corresponding to the time of supply is acceptable.

c) The exchange rate must be updated at least once every three months;

d) The exchange rate must be consistently used for internal business reporting, accounting and GST purposes; and

e) The exchange rate must be used consistently for at least one year from the end of the accounting period in which the method was first used.

4 Administrative Concession

4.1 GST-registered businesses using the exchange rates listed in the table in Appendix A and satisfy all the conditions stated in paragraph 3 do not need to seek the approval of the Comptroller in using these rates.

5 Use of Other Exchange Rates

5.1 GST-registered businesses that would like to adopt an in-house exchange rate that is based on sources other than those listed in Appendix A, or do not satisfy all the conditions stated in paragraph 3 are required to write to the Comptroller for approval.

5.2 In order for the Comptroller to review requests to use in-house exchange rates, businesses are required to provide the following information:

a) Explanation on how the proposed in-house exchange rates are reflective of the exchange rates in the Singapore money market at the time when the supplies take place. Businesses should provide comparisons of the proposed rates with those listed in Appendix A (e.g. the rates published by a local bank) over a 2-week period;

b) The type of exchange rates used by the business. E.g. daily exchange rates, buying rate, selling rate or the average of the buying and selling rates;

c) A confirmation that:

i. The exchange rate will be updated at least once every three months;

ii. The exchange rate will be consistently used for internal business reporting, accounting and GST purposes; and

iii. The exchange rate will be used consistently for at least one year from the end of the accounting period in which the method was first used.

In general, the Comptroller will allow the use of rates that are close approximations of the rates listed in Appendix A.
6 Proper Documentation

6.1 GST-registered businesses are required to maintain sufficient documents to support the exchange rates used. Such books and records should be kept in a proper manner and made available for IRAS' verification whenever the need arises or when so requested by IRAS.
